

PRINCETON WITH HARVARD CLAIMS CENTER OF STAGE

Annual Clash Between These Colleges Eclipses All Other Games to Be Played in East Today.

New York, Nov. 5.—The annual clash between Princeton and Harvard tomorrow overshadows all other gridiron struggles of the day in the east. Dartmouth and Pennsylvania will meet in Boston; Brown will invade New Haven; Notre Dame will be the Army's opponent at West Point; and Bucknell will play the Navy.

An eleven-hour shift marked the day's developments in Princeton's preparations for the Harvard game tomorrow. While hopeful, every one in the Tiger camp rated the Harvard eleven highly. All in charge agreed that the struggle will be close.

OUT DAY FOR ALL LEADERS IN BIG NINE CONFERENCE

Chicago, Nov. 5.—With the leaders of the conference football teams having an off day as far as games bearing on the championship are concerned, interest among football followers of this section will center on the Michigan-Cornell battle at Ann Arbor. The schedule includes the following games: Cornell vs. Michigan; Missouri vs. Northwestern; Indiana vs. Ohio State; Iowa vs. Purdue; Haskell vs. Indiana vs. Chicago; Marquette vs. Michigan State.

With a team far from the best yet developed in the last few years, Michigan meets one of the strongest teams in the east in Cornell. The fighting comes with a victory over Harvard to their credit and a record of seven wins.

The clash of representatives of neighboring conferences lends interest to the Missouri-Northwestern game, though neither eleven has shown much strength this year. Northwestern will not send its best line-up into the battle, it is said, and Missouri is likely to present a team even more crippled.

Chicago may give its substitutes a chance in the game with the Haskell Indians. It is believed that Coach Black will not risk his stars with the Minnesota game only a week away. Championship honors in the Little Five depend on the outcome of the game at Monmouth between Lake Forest and Monmouth.

OKLAHOMA AND NEBRASKA PLAY GAME IN KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Nov. 5.—With the University of Nebraska and the University of Oklahoma playing practice games in preparation for their annual battle on November 13 and the visit of Missouri in Illinois for a contest with Northwestern, a football game of vital importance will be played in Missouri valley territory tomorrow.

The most interesting aspect of the week to followers of the gridiron sport was the talk of a post-season game on Thanksgiving day at Kansas City between Oklahoma and Nebraska. With their defeat of the strong Notre Dame eleven and the conquering of all minor enemies the Cornhuskers are said to have a firm hold on the 1915 Missouri valley championship. Already Oklahoma has defeated Kansas and followers of the sport argue that if the Cornhuskers defeat the Jayhawkers, Oklahoma and Nebraska are logical opponents in a contest to decide the championship of this section of the state.

COLORADO AGGIES SWAMP UNIVERSITY OF WYOMING

Denver, Nov. 5.—The rehabilitated Colorado Aggies football team which has swept all opposition before it today added a 45 to 10 victory over Wyoming to its prestige as a Rocky mountain conference championship contender. The Colorado College football team's game tomorrow at Colorado Springs is expected to be utterly unopposed, since defeat for Utah will practically eliminate that school from the position she holds. In event of victory, the Tigers will face the Colorado Aggies on November 13, without a defeat.

Denver university is preparing for its contest tomorrow with the Colorado school of Mines, last year's winners, but who this year have been eliminated by just performance.

VIRGINIA-VANDERBILT GAME BIG EVENT IN THE SOUTH

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 5.—Interest in southern football tomorrow centers in the Virginia-Vanderbilt game at Charlottesville, although the Alabama-Georgia Tech game at Atlanta promises to have more effect on the so-called southern championship. In their defeat of Yale and good work against Harvard, the Virginians have commanded attention while the com-

OLLIE OLIPHANT

Four players of the gridiron game have shown more versatility than has "Ollie" Oliphant, star end, halfback, quarterback and fullback on the Army eleven. Oliphant began footballing at the halfback position with Purdue a couple of years ago. He then played other backfield positions and did it so well that he made the all-western and all-conference eleven.

Since coming to West Point, Oliphant has played halfback and end. It is not yet settled just where he will play in the big game against the Navy.

Fulton Stops Australian

Indianapolis, Nov. 5.—Fulton, Indiana, Hoosier, Minn., heavyweight, won from Terry Koller of Australia, a technical knockout in the fourth round before the Indian A. C. tonight. Koller stopped a hard round to the jaw in the latter part of the third round and went down. In the fourth round Fulton landed three solid rights to the jaw, scoring a knockout each time. Referee Harry Bout of Milwaukee then stopped the fight. Fulton has been picked as one of the possibilities for Jack Willard at New Orleans in March.

Mac Effusions Wins Pace

San Francisco, Nov. 5.—Mithral, Allie Lou and Mack Effusions all outdistanced their fields today at the Panama-Pacific exposition harness meet and in each case took first money in straight heats. The big race of the day was the 2:25 pace won by Mack Effusions.

Three Runners Win

Philadelphia, Nov. 5.—Princeton defeated Pennsylvania in a dual cross-country run today over the Fairmount park course in a race of 24 to 31.

RUSSIA WARRING ON MILITARISM, ASSERTS PRINCE

Member of Royal Family Declares Abuses at Home Are to Be Corrected as Result of Present Struggle.

(Associated Press Correspondence.) Athens, Sept. 26.—That Russia is warring quite as much against militarism in Russia itself as Germany is the declaration of Prince Demidoff, the Duke of San Donato, who is imperial Russian minister to Greece. In a frank summary of the present situation in Russia, Prince Demidoff told the Associated Press correspondent that he could not see upon what the German claims to victory over Russia were based, and he developed a view of his own of the situation which left the central empire in a perilous rather than a satisfactory position, following their successful drive on the imperial forces of Russia.

Prince Demidoff's family is popularly supposed to be the richest in Russia, its foundations having been laid in the time of Peter the Great by Nikita Demidoff, who opened up some immensely productive mines at Nevskiy, in the Ekaterinburg district of the empire, in 1699. The first of the Demidoffs became the Kropch of this day, having been entrusted by Peter the Great with the manufacture of cannon for the imperial armies.

"From every standpoint," said Prince Demidoff, the German drive on Russia seems to have been as much of a failure as the German drive on Paris a year ago. It had two definite objects—to crush the Russian army in a great piece, and to force Russia to sue for a separate peace.

"The first has patently failed," Prince Demidoff has given it up. They are digging themselves in, as they did in France, and are preparing to transfer part of their troops elsewhere. It was a mad thing to attempt, anyhow—you might as well call it a drive on Ithaca as anything else, for all the definite object it may be said to have had.

Founding at an immense Russian force, withdrawing with administrative order across the Russian steppes, is like chasing a will of the whip through a swamp—the farther you go the worse it gets, and the less chance you have to get out safe and sound. Russia is like a pillow—you can make a hollow in it by punching it with your fist, but when you take your fist away, slowly, inevitably, it comes back.

Problem in Mathematics

"How long do you suppose the Germans can do that?" It is simply a problem in mathematics. Remember one thing the farther away an army extends its line, the more men are required to hold the line; and the farther the line is from its base, the more men are required to feed and clothe and supply it with munitions. And the increase is in geometric, not arithmetic, progression, while at the same time the process of extending the line in the face of a series of daily rearguard actions, itself reduces the effective with which the movement is made. For there is no advance without its price in men—dead, permanently disabled, and those taken prisoners—as well as in the freshness of the troops engaged.

"Now with the Austrians and Germans there is a definite, known maximum number of men available. It may be as great as you please, but it is fixed. Every German killed, permanently disabled or taken prisoner is one available German less. That is the key to the whole situation. So long as the Austrians and Germans have not succeeded in crushing Russia, the process of subtraction goes on indefinitely. Extending their line only increases the inevitable and inevitable loss of men.

"So, on the German side you have two cardinal elements of the situation, neither of which is an element of victory: a price paid in men and strength without definite, concrete results; and an ever-increasing price to pay in the necessity for supplying and victualing an immensely extended line. On the Russian side you have two predominant elements, neither of which is an element of defeat, an unbroken, undisciplined, determined force and an, as yet, scarcely seriously touched reservoir of fresh troops.

"The same analogy holds true of the financial situation of the central empire in relation to the allied powers, and especially to Russia, our resources, our borrowing capacity, our cash, is virtually unlimited. To give me that degree of protection which ensures peace. In this critical hour of world unrest it would be the supremacy of folly did America permit herself to remain weaker in sea power than the only nation that is causing it to rearm at all.

"Therefore the defense movement holds its vital to the preservation of the sovereignty of this nation that steps shall at once be taken to restore America to the position of second naval power, from which, through the wisdom of weak advisers, it was permitted to fall and that the military plans shall be those of general staff of the army, not of the civilian, secretary of war."

Confident of Victory

"It is in the knowledge of this that we are serene in our conviction of final and complete victory."

"The second purpose of the German drive on Russia was to force Russia to conclude a separate peace. It only shows how the Germans have wholly misunderstood the Russian character, as they wholly misunderstood both the French and the English. They thought the French were a degenerate people who had no fight left in them. Since the battle of the Marne they have abandoned that theory. They thought that Great Britain was badly divided, on the verge of civil war. Instead, the entire British empire is in the struggle heart and soul. And instead of forcing Russia to a separate peace, the Germans by their very drive on Russia, have unified the Russian people as they have never been unified before. You have today a spectacle in Russia which is truly grandiose; one hundred and seventy-five millions of people absolutely united, but with one thought, their emperor in person at the head, determined to purge Russia of the invader forever if it take a generation. There

MEN AND HIGH ELEPHANTS TO MEET THIS AFTERNOON

Rivalry Between Schools Presages Close Contest and Big Crowd at Hopewell; Whistle at 2:30.

When the Albuquerque high school and the Memorial school football eleven meet this afternoon at 2:30 on Hopewell field, in all probability precedent will be established both in point of local prep school game attendance and the elevens of play.

The Preparatorians already have one win in their credit over the high school this year and Coach Kemp's team may be depended on to "bust a humping" in the attempt to more than even up matters. Both teams are in the best of condition and both are determined to win, without being overconfident.

On account of the intense rivalry between the two institutions and the fact that the teams are so evenly matched this year, student body interest in both schools in today's game is at a white heat. Yesterday afternoon, the high school prepared for today's battle at a "pop" meeting in the high school auditorium, at which enthusiasm was unbounded. The most contagious will be out in full force. What with the interest in the game on the part of non-students, it is expected that one of the biggest crowds ever to witness a prep school game in this city will be at Hopewell field this afternoon.

SERBIANS SEVERELY DEFEAT BULGARIANS

(Associated Press Correspondence.) London, Nov. 6 (5:20 a. m.).—The Bulgarian army, descending into old Serbia to invade Macedonia by way of Velest and Terlepe, was defeated at Bazar, at the entrance of the Balkan gorges, after a battle lasting several days, according to announcement made to the Serbian legation at Athens and transmitted in Reuters Telegram company.

French infantry and British cavalry took part in the struggle, and gave stout aid to the Serbians. The British horsemen arrived from Krivopal to assist their allies.

The Serbians captured Bazar and Bledjaka.

The Bulgarians, whose ranks are said to have been decimated, are retreating in the direction of Velest and have evacuated the right bank of the Vardar river.

OBREGON PASSES THROUGH EL PASO

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 5.—General Alvaro Obregon, commander-in-chief of operations of the Carranza forces, arrived here from Eagle Pass, Tex., shortly before seven o'clock tonight en route to Arisa Peta to take command of the forces of General Caceres and to attack Naco, Sonora.

He was met by a large delegation of citizens.

is, as a matter of fact, more unity of understanding and confidence among the allies at this moment than there is among the Germans themselves.

"The central empire has failed in both their attempts. Where there is their victory over the Russians. Though lacking sufficient munitions to undertake an offensive all along the line, we can still harry the Germans, at the very least. Every day we contribute our part to the process of subjection which is the secret of the final victory. And this method is really more effective towards the final decider of the war than a mere technical triumph. For the purpose of the war is to finish with militarism for good and all. To do that, the victory of the allies must be absolute; we cannot parley with the military crowd in Germany; they have got to be got rid of. As the war is being fought, victory may be a long way off yet, but every day some of the military crowd in Germany and Austria are being got rid of. The longer the process goes on, the more sure is militarism done with. And that's what we want."

Returned Missionary

IS CHAMPION OF JAPAN

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Baltimore, Nov. 5.—Dr. Rudolph B. Teusler, medical missionary in charge of St. Luke's International hospital in Tokio, Japan, in an address today before the convention of the laymen's missionary movement, severely criticized the attitude of the United States toward Japan.

Much of the feeling of unfriendliness and distrust against Japan in this country, said Dr. Teusler, is the result of prejudice and misinformation. He praised the attitude of Japan toward the Chinese and said that Japan's policy of a Monroe doctrine in the far east will do much for the preservation of the integrity of that nation.

Dr. Teusler, who is a cousin of Mrs. Norman Galt, fiancée of President Wilson, has been in Japan sixteen years.

GREATER NAVY THAN PRESIDENT PLANS REQUIRED

Henry A. Hise Wood Declares Administration Is Not Going Far Enough in Preparation for National Defense.

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Portland, Me., Nov. 5.—Henry A. Wood, of New York, a member of the naval advisory board, in a formal statement issued here tonight as chairman of the conference committee on national preparedness, advocated rejection of President Wilson's naval and military proposals as wholly insufficient. Mr. Wood came to Portland to address a meeting called to discuss plans for the establishment of an aerial coast patrol station at Casco Bay.

"In the name of the defense movement," the statement read, "I unhesitatingly call for the rejection of the naval and military proposals of the president as wholly insufficient to give me that degree of protection which ensures peace. In this critical hour of world unrest it would be the supremacy of folly did America permit herself to remain weaker in sea power than the only nation that is causing it to rearm at all.

"Therefore the defense movement holds its vital to the preservation of the sovereignty of this nation that steps shall at once be taken to restore America to the position of second naval power, from which, through the wisdom of weak advisers, it was permitted to fall and that the military plans shall be those of general staff of the army, not of the civilian, secretary of war."

ADMIRAL LITTLE TESTIFIES IN OWN DEFENSE

Declares He Protected Government in Construction of Submarine, but Agreement Has Been "Misleading."

(By Morning Journal Special Leased Wire.) Boston, Nov. 5.—Rear Admiral William D. Little, who was called out of retirement to answer before a court martial charges of neglect and carelessness in connection with his work as an inspection officer during the construction of the submarine K-2, appeared voluntarily as a witness in his own defense today. He testified that he had protected the government against loss by history defects through a promise obtained from A. Gardner, an agent of the Electric Boat company, that such imperfections as had developed would be corrected. This promise, which was put into writing, was not an agreement and involved nothing that would prevent the navy department taking action in the matter.

The paper on which the promise had been written, Rear Admiral Little testified, was one of three papers which were "misleading" at the same time at the yard of the Fore River Ship-building company, where the K-2 was under construction. One of these papers, the contract for the building of the torpedo boat destroyer Cushing, was subsequently found.

The court completed the taking of testimony today but voted to meet tomorrow. The court probably will draw up its findings here and forward them to Secretary Daniels.
